

- 1 the oldest object in your house (e.g. heirloom)

- 1 three objects from your home that represent your culture or heritage

- 1 how your family (any branch) came to live where they do (e.g. city, province, country)

- 1 besides Canadian, another nation or culture with which you identify and what this looks like

- 1 a historical event (any level of significance) to which your family is connected

- 2 something in your home with no monetary value but has sentimental value

- 2 an old photo from your home with a story behind it

- 2 one or two values or beliefs that characterize your family

- 2 a family story that, if told to strangers, would hold their attention

- 2 the oldest connection (e.g. to an ancestor) you can make in your family for which you know some details

- 3 something interesting in your home from the past that you have displayed or put up somewhere
- 3 two object in your room that could be used to explain Canadian (or your) culture to a foreigner
- 3 an experience from the past that seems to be shared again and again in your family (e.g, over multiple generations)
- 3 a tradition that has some roots in your family (e.g. goes way back)
- 3 what you ask if you could interview a deceased member of your family
- 4 an object in your house that was once an everyday object but is no longer used (e.g. tool, implement)
- 4 an object or heirloom that you would pass on to a grandchild (assuming you have one)
- 4 a way of knowing, acting, or doing something that might be unique (or at least important) to your family
- 4 something about your heritage or culture for which you are proud
- 4 something sad or funny that happened in your family's past that you can share